As of June 30, 2000, 50,000 ATP brochures had been distributed nationwide, over 1800 persons had registered with the program, and seven tissue donations had been received. In support of the ATP, NAAR was also the recipient of a four-year, $542,744 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) and the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke (NINDS) to work with the Harvard Brain Tissue Resource Center to continue to make the need for brain tissue known nationally. NAAR also worked with the Max Foundation to provide support for research centers and organizations providing educational, training and medical services for children with autism.

The Autism Society of America Foundation, Solving the Mystery of Autism Foundation, and the Doug Flutie Jr. Foundation for Autism continue to fund autism biomedical research through NAAR. Promoting scientific collaboration, NAAR and The Nancy Lurie Marks Family Foundation sponsored a scientific retreat among autism genetics researchers.

e. Outreach and Awareness: $87,024

NAAR was engaged in a variety of public education and awareness activities on behalf of autism research. The fifth and sixth issues of NAAR's newsletter, NAARRATIVE, were distributed to over 15,000 individuals in the U.S. and abroad as well as at conferences and symposia around the country. The science feature articles of each issue, as well as selected other articles, were also posted on NAAR's website, www.naar.org.

NAAR's award-winning website was upgraded throughout the year to provide additional research search tools and increase the amount of information available on autism and autism research.

At NAAR's expense, NAAR Vice President-Medical Affairs and other representatives presented at a wide range of autism and other scientific conferences and distributed/provided information on autism and autism research to numerous individuals, organizations and medical societies.
